NLC national league of cities

The National League of Cities is the national action arm of the nation's cities. Included in its membership are 50 state municipal leagues and their member cities and, as direct members, the cities with a population of over 30,000, the ten largest cities in each state, and all state capitals—a total of 812 eligible direct members and almost 15,000 member cities in all. • The National League of Cities focuses its national policy activity on improving the quality of life for the people who live in our cities. Through comprehensive analysis of national policies and related programs and through representation before the Congress and federal executive agencies, NLC officers and staff address the immediate and long-term concerns of city officials and urban citizens. • A major objective of NLC is to aid city policy leaders—mayors and council members—in the improvement of their individual and institutional capacity to shape sound local policies and to strengthen their state municipal leagues and NLC as the vehicles which these officials utilize to influence the shape of state and national policies.
